

JESEPH GARCIA

Born in Modesto, California and raised in Colorado Springs. Jeseeph attended Mitchell High School and then graduated Summa Cum Laude from UCCS with my Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration. He then went on to work in the restaurant industry as a General Manager for a few years before deciding to accompany his wife during her medical school rotations while continuing his education and achieving his Master of Business Administration in General Management from UCCS.

Following his wife's graduation from medical school she accepted a job in Minneapolis as a resident physician at the University of Minnesota. Upon their arrival to Minnesota Jeseeph began his current job as a Financial Administrative Specialist at the Department of Veterans Affairs. In this role he acts as a debt counselor for veterans by helping them reduce their debts with the VA through various avenues. Jeseeph also provides veterans with specific advice on how to manage their money to more efficiently pay down debts over time. Jeseeph finds great satisfaction in this position because he is able to give back to the veterans who provide us all with the opportunities we are afforded as citizens of this great nation. This hits especially close to home as my wife is active duty in the United States Air Force. Jeseeph is looking forward to a long career serving our veterans.

"I cannot stress enough how my time at Hillside helped shape me into the man I am today. Being pushed to your limits both mentally and physically, as Coach Nate was known to do, forces you to be the best version of yourself. Being able to focus during stressful times is a skill that has allowed me to excel both academically and in the workforce. Hillside also taught me how far consistency and determination can really take you. This is truly a key to life because much of success in life is not predicated on initial abilities and smarts, but rather how determined you are to do everything the right way consistently."
